Five candidates qualify for election

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The ballot for Saturday's election to select a new state representative for District 122 will carry a slate of five candidates.

The five Hancock County men who qualified before the 5 p.m. deadline Monday are Clement Stephen (Steve) Benvenuti, Earl (Buck) Ladner, John V. Ladner, David Michael Neacise and Walter James Phillips.

The special election, called last week by then-Gov. William Winters, resulted from a vacancy created when State Rep. J.P. Compretta resigned his seat to serve as an assistant under new District Attorney Cono Caranna.

The election will affect all voters in Hancock County except for those in the Leetown, Flat Top, Crane Creek and Standard Precincts.

The polls will open at 7 a.m. Saturday and close at 6 p.m.

Circuit Clerk John Rutherford says absentee votes may be cast between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office in the courthouse in Bay St. Louis until noon Friday.

Voters who registered after Dec. 15 cannot vote in this election, he said.

Benvenuti, 30, is a self-employed Bay St. Louis attorney who graduated from Bay Senior High School and holds a bachelor of arts degree in political science and a juris doctor degree from the University of Mississippi.

Earl (Buck) Ladner, 35, of Bay St. Louis, is a self-employed contractor.

State anti-pollution official says:

Spray method favored for Bay, Waveland sewage

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A majority of the State Pollution Control Permit Board members feel an upland spray irrigation method is the best way to dispose of effluents from Bay St. Louis and Waveland wastewater treatment facilities, a Mississippi Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control official reports.

John McCarty, BPC Hancock County project engineer, said Wednesday afternoon that Tuesday night he informally asked three of five members of the permit board what are the most acceptable methods out of five for disposing of treated sewage from both cities.

McCarty noted the permit board would be responsible for approving a method as recommended by the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District of Hancock as part of 201 and 208 studies regarding long-term wastewater treatment plans for the county.

The project engineer reported the three members he spoke with who would be instrumental in the board's decision are Dr. Richard Leard, State Bureau of Marine Resources director; Joe Brown, State Health Department director; and Charles Bremick, Bureau of Land and Water Resources chief.

The district had originally planned to extend the end of Waveland's effluent line from Edwards Bayou to the Bay's line from Watts Bayou to Jourdan River near the Bay of St. Louis.

But about 100 angry homeowners living in the vicinity of present and proposed sewage discharge points appeared at a recent public hearing in Waveland regarding the district's sewerage plans and voiced their objections to the extensions to the Jourdan.

The residents said at the hearing and at a recent meeting of the management district's board of directors that the extensions will result in pollution of the Jourdan which they value as a prime recreational area.

At the wastewater board meeting, they also suggested the irrigation method as an acceptable long-range alternative for effluent disposal and said 85 percent matching federal government funds are available for that system as opposed to 55 percent monies available for the extensions.

McCarty said the 85 percent funding is available through the Environmental Protection Agency through fiscal year 1984 which ends Oct. 1 since the spray irrigation method is considered an 'innovative' system.

In fiscal year 1985 that funding will drop to a 75 percent level, he added.

McCarty also revealed that the BPC is recommending that the Waveland district postpone a planned Feb. 6 hearing to allow enough time for regulatory government agencies and Hancock residents to review the bureau's written replies to the public's objections at the first hearing and its recommendations for alternate systems.

McCarty said the hearing date will be changed to sometime in late February or early March.

McCarty said, based on acceptability, the three permit board members ranked five effluent disposal methods as follows:

- Spray irrigation land treatment method provided it is cost effective;
- Utilizing the present discharge points provided safeguards are taken regarding water quality;
- Discharge in the Jourdan;
- Discharge in the Mississippi Sound;
- Discharge in the Bay of St. Louis.

McCarty said the permit board members said the Jourdan plan would be acceptable for a 20-year period, but would 'not be advisable for a long term of 40 to 50 years.'

If discharged in the river, recreational opportunities would have to be protected and the effluent could not be disposed where people live, swim or boat extensively, McCarty reported.

He said the permit board would probably not approve discharging the effluent into the bay because Mississippi is experiencing a rapid loss of shellfish areas due to pollution and needs those few remaining ones.

For the same reasons the board members oppose disposal in the Sound and also noted there are attempts underway to develop new oyster reefs offshore from Hancock, McCarty reported.

But the board members recommended the Waveland district formulate a 'cost effective' method for discharging into the Sound, present the permit board with a plan and then time consuming environmental studies will have to be undertaken which will probably unacceptably delay the project.

Regarding land irrigation treatment, McCarty stated, "The permit board members feel this is the most viable alternative if we can make it cost effective and design it properly."

He said the board members en-

Biloxi Veterans Hospital care quality upgraded with new facility opening

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Eligible veterans in coastal Mississippi and Alabama and western Florida are now offered modern medical facilities at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Biloxi.

James Garner, special assistant director of the center, said Monday that a recently constructed $17 million four-story clinical building contains more than $3 million in equipment.

These "state-of-the-art" devices are utilized in admissions, outpatient and emergency care, radiology, nuclear medicine, laboratory work, an outpatient pharmacy, respiratory therapy, electrocardiography, electroencephalography, audiology and speech pathology, an eye clinic and surgery, he listed.

The new building, which took about two years to build, also houses a 10-bed medical and surgical intensive care unit and six operating rooms, Garner added.

Although the facility was officially dedicated Wednesday afternoon, the VA accepted the building containing 148,000 square feet of floor space for occupancy in early November, the assistant director said.

"We have been moving in on a phased basis, with almost all moved in except for the pharmacy and radiology which should be in operation in early February," he stated.

"This is really an upgrading of services and facilities we have offered in the past. This allows us to offer the art equipment and improve the quality of care by doing it more efficiently," Garner said.

At the dedication ceremonies, U.S. Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, said use of VA medical facilities is expected to triple during the next decade as World War II veterans reach retirement age.

"We must be prepared to expand ambulatory and geriatric care while maintaining the quality of the nation's number one health care delivery system. I'm proud to say that the Biloxi VA Medical Center has taken the forefront in the effort to meet the challenge," he stated.

Garner said the new building represents the first of some $30 million in improvements planned for the Biloxi center and the VA Psychiatric Division in Gulfport during the next four years.

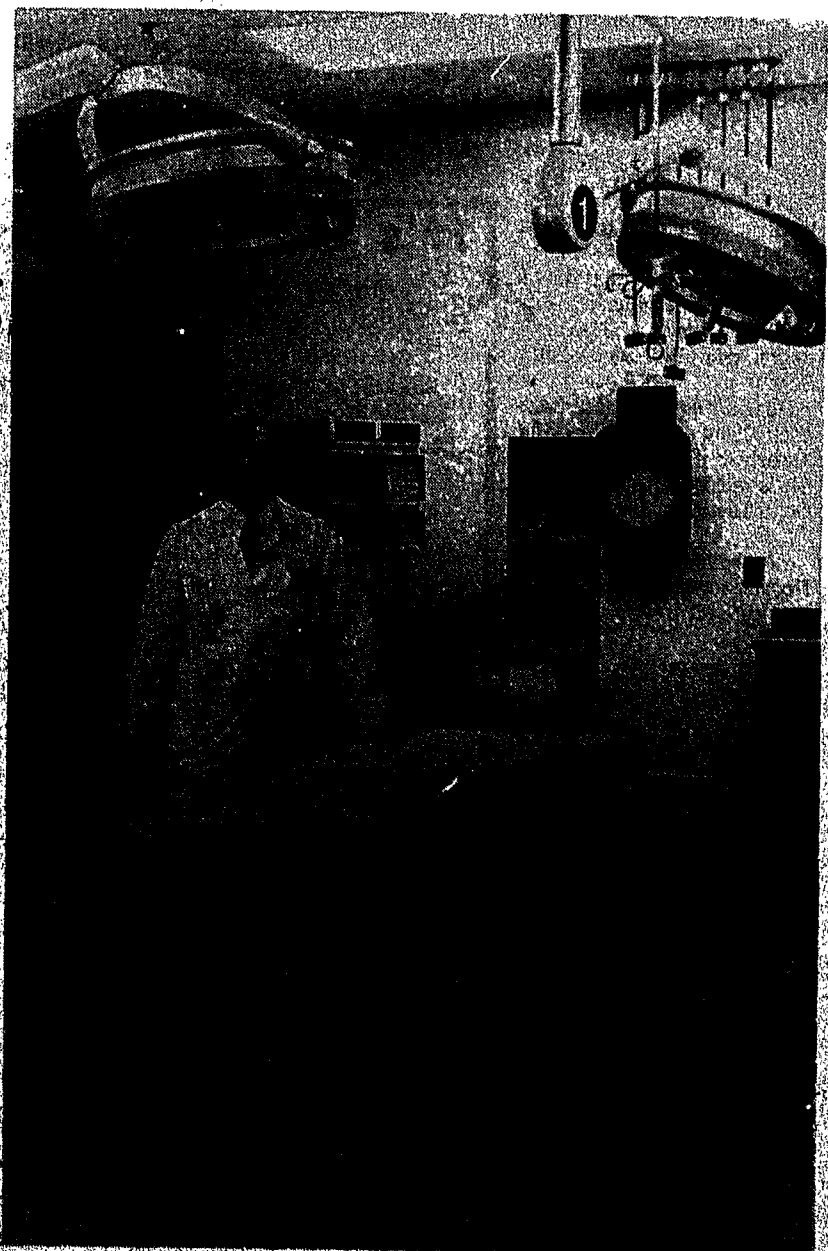

He reported the Biloxi and Gulfport centers will probably each utilize $45 million, primarily to renovate old buildings.

The four old buildings at the Biloxi facility were built in the 1930s and will be renovated to modernize and increase bed space, Garner explained.

He did not know details of the Gulfport renovations which will improve those buildings constructed in the assistant director said the new building in Biloxi has resulted in two floors of the five-story main hospital building.

Buck Ladner makes bid for seat in state House

Earl (Buck) Ladner of 631 Carroll Ave., Bay St. Louis, has announced his candidacy for the District 122 seat in the Mississippi House of Representatives.

Ladner, 35, is president of Gulf Coast Security Services Inc.

He previously served in the House from 1972-76.

He worked for the Hancock County Sheriff's Department from 1965-69 and was a Justice

EARL (BUCK) LADNER

Court judge from 1969-72.

Ladner says, "If re-elected to this most important office I will continue to hold public meetings and publish articles to keep the public aware of what is happening in the State Legislature."

"As I have in the past, I will continue to work for better education, law enforcement and new jobs for Hancock County and the State of Mississippi."

David Necaise qualifies for District No. 122 post

David Michael Necaise, 29, of Cedar Lane in Bay St. Louis has qualified as a candidate for the office of District No. 122 state representative.

He is a native and lifelong resident of Bay St. Louis and a self-employed attorney here.

Necaise is married to the former Kimberly Ann Sumrall and they are the parents of two children—Alissa, 4, and David Michael II, 18 months.

The candidate holds a doctor of jurisprudence degree from Mississippi College School of Law in Clinton, bachelor of science degree in criminal justice and history from the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, and a preparatory degree from Bay Senior High School.

He is a member of the Hancock County, Mississippi and American Bar Associations; Christian Legal Society; and Delta Theta Phi Legal Fraternity.

Regarding his candidacy, Necaise states, "With its present rate of growth, Hancock County must elect a representative who will serve the interests and needs of its people to the fullest."

"A couple of my major concerns are the lack of support for the individuals who have unselfishly sacrificed and devoted their time, energies and efforts to the educating of our children. I feel that it is the duty of the representative to promote the interest of the people by supporting the educational system," he says.

"Another major concern of mine is to emphasize the need for a stronger support of the individuals in law enforcement who are diligently serving the public," Necaise states.

"I would appreciate the voters to consider electing me as representative on Jan. 14. If we are not willing to elect an individual to promote change, we cannot expect improvements for this expanding county," he concludes.

Hancock United Way tops goal

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County United Way has exceeded its 1983 fund raising campaign goal by collecting donations amounting to more than $46,000, a UW official says.
Conrad Mauffray, local UW executive director, said at a Tuesday afternoon board of directors meeting that he had not yet tabulated an exact total, but based on pledges and contributions the organization had exceeded its $45,000 goal by more than $1,000.
Hilda Bourg of Diamondhead was chairman of the 1983 campaign which generated the most contributions ever collected in a single Hancock drive.
As a result of the successful campaign, the board voted to increase contributions to most of its recipient agencies which had expressed a need for more funds or expanded local operations.
Compared to amounts given to the agencies last year, the board approved increasing annual contributions to the:
—Hancock County Chapter of the American Red Cross from $4,500 to $5,000;
—County Emergency Relief Fund from $5,500 to $6,000;
—Cypress District of the Boy Scouts from $4,500 to $5,000;
—Gulf Pines Council of the Girl

Scouts from $4,000 to $4,500;
—Hancock Senior Citizens from $3,500 to $4,000;
—Catholic Social Services from $3,000 to $3,500;
—Gulf Coast Mental Health Center from $2,500 to $3,000;
—Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program from $3,750 to $4,500;
—Firemen's Doll and Toy Fund from $500 to $800;
—Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi from $1,500 to $2,000;
—Salvation Army from $1,500 to $2,000.
The directors decided to maintain existing contribution amounts to the Hancock Blood Bank, United Service Organization and Young Men's Christian Organization at $500 each annually, and Mississippi Council on Epilepsy at $1,000.

Norton Haas Sr., UW board president, commended Bourg for her 'outstanding fund raising campaign.'
Bourg credited the board, local volunteers, participating businesses and individual contributors for the successful campaign.
Mauffray noted that the increase in donations, partially resulted from several payroll deduction contributions and pledges from local residents employed at out-of-town industries.
During the campaign, Bourg repeatedly urged individuals working out-of-town to designate that the Hancock group receive their United Way donation.

courage any wastewater treatment away from streams or bodies of water.
McCarty said by utilizing spray irrigation, Waveland and Bay St. Louis could continue to use their present sewage treatment systems, but the effluent from both would have to be combined at some point and 'pre-treated' before being sprayed.
Mayor John Longo, Waveland wastewater district board chairman, suggested recently that an area of forest land in the National Space Technology Laboratories Acoustic Buffer Zone might be an ideal location for a spray irrigation system since this method also enhances tree growth.
In reference to utilizing existing discharge points, McCartney said the Bay

St. Louis sewage treatment system (an oxidation pond) would have to be changed to a mechanical system and Waveland would also probably need to improve its sewage plant somewhat, but not to the extent of installing a tertiary treatment system.
"Keeping the discharge points where they are would require increasing treatment levels and costs," he stated.
McCarty reported that they also discussed possibly both cities discharging into the East Pearl River, but due to the distance and cost this method would probably not be practical.
"We will definitely look at land treatment, other places on the Jourdan and the Sound," he added.

Be sure to vote Saturday

A very important election will be held in Hancock County on Saturday.

The election has been called by William Winter, former Mississippi governor, to choose a successor for J.P. Compretta.

Compretta resigned his seat in order to become an assistant under District Attorney Cono Caranna.

All qualified electors of Hancock County are urged to vote for the candidate of their choice.

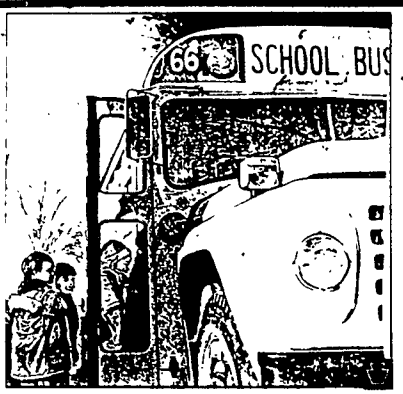

Some five candidates are seeking the position. Campaigning has been limited due to the fact the election has been called on such a short notice.

As you know, the House of Representatives plays a very important role in the operations of our state.

House District 122 includes all of Hancock County with exception of the precincts of Standard, Leetown, Crane Creek and Flat Top.

Remember, the polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

Lung group urges flu immunization

Influenza virus infections occur every year in the United States but vary greatly in incidence and geographic distribution, reported Dr. Roland B. Robertson Jr. of Jackson, president of the Mississippi Lung Association.

Flu is a contagious respiratory disease and affects the lining of the respiratory tract. Uncomplicated influenza is a moderately severe illness for most people; however, is very serious for high risk people.

Those who are at high risk include: any adult or child with a chronic lung disease such as asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, tuberculosis, or cystic fibrosis; any adult or child with a heart disease, diabetes, kidney disease and anyone over 65 years of age.

Sometimes complications set in with flu. Most of these complications are bacterial infections. The body can be weakened by influenza and defenses against bacteria are low. Bacterial pneumonia is the most common complication, but the sinuses, bronchi (lung tubes) or inner ears may also become inflamed and painful. There are other less common developments that can also be serious.

Among these are viral pneumonia, encephalitis and other various nervous system disorders.

In a flu epidemic year, from 20 to 30 percent of the population contract influenza. The virus that causes influenza may belong to one of three different flu virus families, A, B, or C. Influenza A and influenza B are the major families. Every 10 years or so, a flu virus appears that is dramatically different — such as the 1918 epidemic.

Most flu can be prevented by immunization. Vaccines are made up yearly from the major viral strains that are expected to cause illness that year. A yearly immunization has been found to be 70 to 90 percent effective in preventing flu.

Flu vaccine is made from killed virus, so no one can get influenza from receiving a flu "shot". Most people have little or no reaction to the vaccine. Adverse reactions, presumably allergic in nature, have been observed in some and in these cases, shots should be administered under close supervision of the person's physician.

High risk persons should be immunized yearly against flu. Efforts to reduce the impact of influenza in Mississippi and the U.S.A. have been aimed at protecting persons at greatest risk of serious illness or death.

The Mississippi Lung Association, dedicated to preventing and controlling lung diseases and respiratory problems, consider flu vaccination a high priority for the chronically ill and the elderly. Others should ask their physician... truly a matter of "life and breath".

Neighborhood resident applauds police efforts to 'clean up' corner

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, Ms.

Dear Sir:

I am writing this statement in response to an article in the Sun/Hearal Saturday paper Jan. 7, 1984 concerning the police department and their effort to clean the corner of St. Francis and Sycamore Streets in Bay St. Louis.

It seems as though every time the effort is put forth and the results begin to show favorable, a negative attitude surfaces from a few.

I do not wish to say who is right or who is wrong in the incident that occurred on Nov. 19, 1983 but I hope that no matter what the outcome, the police department will not let up its efforts to stop the shooting, cutting, throwing bottles and urinating in public.

Because I for one think that the police are doing a marvelous job.

For someone to spend a few hours back of town (the corner of St. Francis and Sycamore) and think that they can make a correct analysis of what is going on is impossible.

They will have to spend a life time as I have at 520 St. Francis St., Bay St. Louis; MS and witness as much violence there as I have.

And to the persons who say they are afraid to come out of their house because of the police, when they get their property misused or stolen and all they see is 10 to 30 people loitering in the area, how do they expect the police to do something about it - it will be too late.

To the Sheriff and police department: Do not slow down. Keep your efforts moving forward.

Civilian Conservation Corps alumni group seeking former corps members

To the Editor:

During 1983, The National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni (NACCCA) celebrated the 50th Anniversary of the establishment of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC).

The NACCCA is trying to locate about two million former members and persons who were connected or affiliated with the CCC during the 1930's and 1940's.

It is a known fact that many of these persons reside in Mississippi and areas serviced by the "Sea Coast Echo".

I am sure that many of your readers have often wondered what became of the CCC.

You can tell them the CCC lives again in the NACCCA.

It is a young and growing organization with chapters in many of the states throughout the nation and one of its major objectives is to have the CCC reactivated.

A commemorative CCC postage stamp has been available for purchase since April, 1983.

Anyone interested in the organization can write to NACCCA, Loehmann's Plaza, 7245 Arlington Blvd., Suite 318, Falls Church, Virginia, 22042 for more information and literature.

Report on City Court case termed hilarious

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

I thoroughly enjoyed the hilarious story by Nan Patton Elmbright appearing in Sunday's issue of the Sea Coast Echo, the story in which two men were arrested and brought to trial on charges of "willfully and unlawfully" obstructing traffic.

In the course of the trial, it was determined that their "crime" was leaning against a fence belonging to the Housing Authority.

We who occasionally grow weary from the hectic pace of life and are tempted to lean against a public fence will welcome the landmark decision in which the charges were dismissed.

Sincerely,
Stanleigh A. Morrison

People's Business

PROTECTING THE STATE'S BUSINESS CLIMATE

A group of legislators and business men and women sat down this week to talk about Mississippi's economy. The event was a joint meeting of members of the 1984 Legislature and members of the Mississippi Economic Council, the state's largest association of business and professional leadership.

The meeting focused on state finance — the need to pick up the pace of the state's sputtering economic machine.

The economic life of Mississippi, said MEC, is linked to the success of Mississippi business. Also, said MEC, what Mississippi needs is not a continuing fight over shares of the state's economic pie; what Mississippi needs is a bigger pie.

Then the Council set out five actions which business considers to be essential to Mississippi's economic advancement.

These five steps are worth repeating, and worth space on the desk top of every member of the Legislature. These five actions, all important to the state's business climate, include:

1. Preservation of a competitive tax structure
2. Protection of the state's "right to work" constitutional guarantee
3. Prohibition of collective bargaining and the right to strike for public employees
4. Offering of economic incentives for business growth and expansion
5. Maintenance of fairness to management and labor in workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation laws and rules and regulations.

Court begins January term

By NAN PATTON EHRLIGHT
The January term of Circuit Court, Judge J. Ruble Griffin presiding, began this week with impanelment of four 12-person juries and the trial of two civil cases.

Deputy Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler said a jury ruled for the defendant in Hammon vs. Blackledge, a lawsuit arising from alleged house construction deficiencies.

In Lacoste vs. Halter Marine, a controversy about a boat sale, the jury found for the plaintiff, she said.

In a criminal case, Mark and Mary Bankston pled guilty to possession of a controlled substance and were sentenced to three years' probation.

The trial of Terry Kolczynski, Deborah Kolczynski and James Schuman on charges of possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell was continued.

Trials of David Barras on forgery charges and Samuel Jordan on burglary charges are scheduled to be held today, Metzler reported yesterday.

Also scheduled this week are trials for Michael Mirandy for burglary charges and Rodney C. Martin and Terry Lee Walker for burglary of a dwelling and grand larceny.

Collectors organizing

The South Mississippi Collector's Club, a non-profit educational organization, will hold an organizational meeting in the Laurel/Hattiesburg area in the near future.

This club will be of interest to those persons interested in the field of limited edition plates, bells and figurines.

Anyone interested in becoming a charter member of this club is invited to contact: Lester F. McAllister, P.O. Box 4231, Laurel, Ms 39441.

Information regarding a definite time and place for the first meeting will be mailed to those people who respond to this announcement.

Cheese, butter distribution set Jan. 19

Wallace Bradley of Hancock County Welfare Department announced Tuesday that U.S. Department of Agriculture commodities of cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk will be distributed Thursday, Jan. 19.

The distribution will take place at the National Guard Armory on Longfellow Road next to the Fairgrounds from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Eligible for these commodities, Bradley said, are food stamp recipients and persons from low income households who have applied at the Welfare Department.

Bradley noted that Medicaid recipients are no longer automatically eligible for commodities.

"However," he said, "they may be eligible under the low household income category."

Medicaid recipients may apply at the Welfare Department to check this possible eligibility.

Bradley said distribution is expected to be much faster this time because eligible recipients must bring signed vouchers from the Welfare Department with them.

"Although parking is extremely limited at the Armory," he said, "parking facilities at the Fairgrounds may also be used."

TV CREDITS

The spring semester of college credit courses on Mississippi ETV begins Jan. 21. Persons interested in registering for any of the courses for college credit should contact the college or university where they would like to earn the credit. Or for additional information, persons may call, toll-free, 1-800-822-9698. In the Jackson area, the number is 982-6280.

In addition to the college credit courses, the popular GED-TV series will be aired again this spring.

The GED-TV series is designed to help persons prepare to take the General Educational Development (GED) test for a High School Equivalency Certificate.

Lung Association continues Christmas Seal campaign

The widespread and generous support given by residents of Hancock County to the 1983 Christmas Seal campaign demonstrates a true spirit of community concern, said Mrs. Elda Duke, chairman of Hancock County Chapter, Mississippi Lung Association.

The educational and service outreach of Christmas Seal supported programs benefits Mississippians of all ages and in all walks of life.

Christmas Seal programs work year-round to provide patient services and programs of public information, education and medical research to prevent and control lung diseases.

Although Christmas is over, the 1984 lung health crusade is just beginning for the Christmas Seal people.

The Hancock County Lung Chapter, one of 88 county and bi-county chapters, is providing educational and other programs to bring a unified effort against all lung diseases, Duke added.

"If you have not already done so, please send your Christmas Seal contribution to help fight lung diseases. Christmas Seal contributions from citizens of Hancock County are credited to the local lung chapter and are tax deductible," Duke noted.

For information on Christmas Seal services or to send a gift for lung health, contact the local chapter or the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 985, Jackson, Ms 39204 or phone 922-5462.

A graduate of Bay High School, he received his bachelor of arts degree in sociology and political science and his law degree from the University of Mississippi. He served in the House from 1962-66 and from 1969-72.

Election Commissioner Francis Lee said Tuesday that "everything is pretty much in order for the election."

"The printed ballots are due to be ready today," he said.

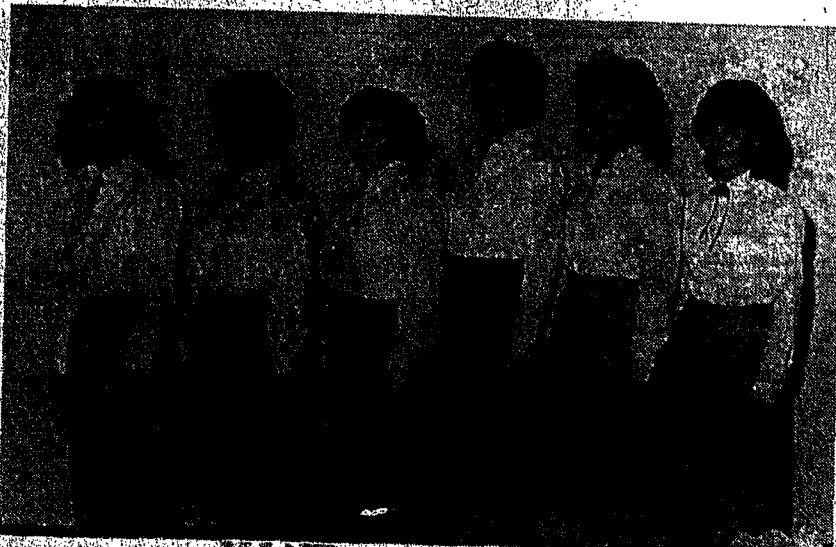

Lee said he is afraid that voter turnout will be light because of the short interim between calling and holding the election.

"The candidates haven't had much time to campaign," he noted.

"But if the weather is good, that may help the turnout," he said.

Rice is economical and versatile food

By Melissa Mixon
Food and Nutrition
Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Rice is economical and versatile. Its bland flavor combines well with many ingredients and it is easy to prepare.

Rice may be long, medium or short grain. Buy long grain rice for use in main dishes, salads, curries, soups and stews. Use short or medium grain rice in croquettes, meat and fish loaves, rice rings and puddings.

Rice can be purchased in several forms.

Regular white rice has been milled to remove the hull, germ and practically all of the bran. Milling also removes some of the vitamins and minerals. Cooked long grain rice is light and fluffy, with grains that are separate and distinct. Cooked short or medium grain rice has moist grains that tend to cling together.

Enriched rice is white rice plus added vitamins and iron. Parboiled rice is treated by a special steam-pressure process before milling. This forces the vitamins and minerals from the hull, bran and germ into the starchy part of the grain, so that much of the natural vitamin and mineral content is retained after milling.

Parboiled rice is also enriched. It takes longer to cook than regular white rice. The cooked grains are fluffy, separate and plump. They are slightly firmer and more chewy than regular milled rice.

Precooked rice is long grain white rice that has been cooked and dried. It takes less preparation time than regular white rice but costs more. Brown rice is whole grain rice from which only the hull and a small amount of the bran has been removed. It retains more of the natural vitamins and minerals than white rice. It has a nutlike flavor, is slightly chewy and needs to cook a little longer than regular white rice.

Wild rice is not a true rice, but the seed of a grass that grows wild in shallow lakes and marshes. It is dark brown, distinctive in flavor and costs considerably more than other types of rice.

When cooking rice, keep in mind that most kinds and brands of rice swell during cooking. One cup of uncooked white, parboiled or brown rice yields three to four cups cooked rice. One cup of precooked rice yields from one to slightly more than two cups.

To keep as many nutrients as possible in cooked rice, follow these rules:

—Do not wash rice before cooking. Packaged rice is clean.

—Use only the amount of water that the rice will absorb during cooking.

—Do not rinse rice after cooking.

Cooked rice may be kept up to one week in the refrigerator. Cooked rice may also be frozen and kept in the freezer at 0 degrees F or below for six to eight months.

To reheat rice, steam it in a colander or sieve over boiling water. Or add two tablespoons of water for each cup of cooked rice and reheat in a covered pan over low heat or in the oven.

If the rice is frozen, thaw, then reheat like refrigerated rice.

Dixie National Wagon Train seeking entries

The Gulf Coast Dixie National Wagon Train will begin its annual ride to Jackson, Mississippi, on January 28. The ride will be for approximately 14 days, ending in Jackson in time to kick off the Dixie National Rodeo.

Anyone interested in participating in the ride may do so, either for one day, a weekend, or the entire 14 days. The cost for the ride is $10 for adults and $5 for children (16 and under).

Those interested in entering a wagon in the wagon train should be aware that no rubber tires are allowed on the wagons and the wagons must be pulled by horse or mule.

Also, horses and mules being ridden in the ride must have a current health certificate and negative coggins report on hand at all times during the ride.

For information on the wagon train contact Gene Allen at 601/896-9939.

Applications for the ride can be obtained from Watts Western Store, Landon Road, Gulfport.

The festival will kick off with a two-hour documentary, 'The Marx Brothers in a Nutshell,' at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 12, followed on Jan. 19 with 'The Cocoanuts.' Horse Feathers' will air on Jan. 26 and 'Duck Soup' on Feb. 2.

Mississippi Power lowers fuel-adjustment charge

Mississippi Power Company customers will pay slightly less for electricity in 1984 because the Gulfport-based utility has lowered its fuel adjustment charge.

John Stephens, vice president for Rates and Regulatory Affairs, said a .638 mill reduction in the fuel adjustment charge for 1984 will mean customers will pay about $1 less for each 1,500 hours of electricity they purchase.

"Our total cost of fuel for 1984 should be less because we have improved the efficiency of our lower-cost, coal-fired generating units," Stephens said. "This means we can run these low cost units more during the year and our more costly units less. The result will be a lower cost to our customers."

The fuel adjustment charge is a method approved by the state Public Service Commission for utilities to recover the cost of fuel burned to produce electricity.

"We calculate the fuel adjustment factor each December to reflect our estimated per-kilowatt-hour fuel cost for the coming year," Stephens said. "Then this set figure is multiplied by the number of kilowatt hours a customer uses each month and this is part of his bill. This factor is changed each year and reflects actual fuel expenses."

For the last six months of 1983 the fuel adjustment factor was 3.627 mills. For 1984 the factor will be 2.989 mills.

Mississippi Power Company is a member of the Southern electric system and serves more than 163,000 customers in 23 southeast Mississippi counties. Coal, the cheapest fossil fuel available, is burned to produce more than 95 percent of Mississippi Power Company's electricity.

Republicans name Taggart

Mississippi Republican Party Chairman Ebbie Spivey announced today the appointment of Andy Taggart as executive director of the party. Taggart, a native of Moss Point, replaces Lanny Griffith who has accepted the position of Southern Political Director for the Republican National Committee.

"We are extremely sorry to see Lanny go," said Spivey, "but are pleased that he will oversee activities here in Mississippi for the National Committee. His experience and dedication to the Mississippi Republican Party are attributes we will continue to rely upon."

"We are very excited to have Andy available to continue the tradition of Republicans dedicated to responsible government on the state and local level as well as nationwide," Spivey continued.

Taggart worked for the state party as political director in 1981 and before that as youth director for the Reagan-Bush effort in 1980. He is a building being vacated and those floors will be renovated to increase bed space in the building from 201 to 240.

ENTRANCE SCULPTURE—Pointing out Monday a scale model in his office of a 12-foot-long portion of a steel pipe sculpture depicting two hunting dogs laying in the grass which will be placed on top of a concrete railing in front of the Veterans Administration Medical Center Clinical Building in Biloxi is James Garner, assistant center director. He noted two other sculptures, depicted by the other models, will be placed in proximity to the railing decoration. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

He explained that new regulations call for a maximum of four patients in each room and increased square footage requirements for each patient.

This will result in a reduction of the number of beds on some building floors, he said regarding some structures with older dormitory-style rooms designed to accommodate 12 patients in each.

Regarding veteran eligibility to utilize the Biloxi facility, Garner explained law requires a priority system for accepting patients.

"Our top priority are veterans with a service-connected disability or if a disability is 50 percent or more service-connected they can be treated here," he stated.

The next category of veterans accepted for treatment are former prisoners of war or those exposed to agent orange or nuclear radiation, Garner reported.

All other veterans are accepted based on 'availability of services and priority of treatment,' he said.

Eligible veterans can be treated on an outpatient basis if they have a condition which if not treated could require hospitalization or need care following hospitalization, Garner explained.

He said the Biloxi center serves eligible veterans in the southern seven Mississippi counties and Mobile and Pensacola areas.

Other speakers at the Wednesday dedication included U.S. Rep. Trent Lott of the Fifth Congressional District in Mississippi and Harry Walters, veterans affairs administrator.

Also participating in the ceremony were Garner; the Keebler Air Force Base band and color guard; Edmund W. Holmes Jr., chaplain service chief; James H. Caldwell, center director; and Donald B. Thompson, VA Southeastern Region director.

A SCRUFFY FRIEND—The Bay-Waveland Humane Society is looking for a good home within fenced yard for this nine-month-old female Beagle-type dog thoughtlessly dumped in the freezing cold on the side of a highway. A humane society volunteer finally rescued the frightened dog named Scruffy after about three hours of coaxing. The dog has received the necessary inoculations and the society will pay a portion of the spaying cost. For adoption information telephone the humane society volunteer in the afternoon or early evening at 255-3240. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

St. Clare's census begins this week

Some 30 volunteers from St. Clare Catholic Church this week began an intensive, door-to-door census of the Waveland parish.

The canvass is the first of its type to be made in the parish in eight years, according to Sister Mary Joel, OP, project coordinator.

St. Clare Parish includes the area bounded by Bay Oaks Drive, Beach Boulevard, Buccaneer State Park and the Jourdan River to include Shoreline Park.

The interview, which will include completion of a brief questionnaire, may take a minimum of five minutes, Sister reported.

The volunteers, however, are prepared to answer questions about the parish and the programs it offers, she noted.

Mississippi World's Fair Council developing video brochure program

The Mississippi World's Fair Council, Inc. has developed the Mississippi Video Brochure Program offering communities, associations and corporate sponsors the opportunity to maximize their promotional potential during the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition and beyond. The Video Brochure Program will provide participants with an economical method of reaching the millions of visitors attending the World's Fair, to be held in New Orleans May 12 through Nov. 11.

The council has planned a creative promotional and advertising campaign and a 20,000 square foot world-class pavilion which will showcase the state's natural beauty, tourist attractions, cultural heritage, musical and artistic attributes.

Working with the council staff, each participant will contract with a Mississippi communications company to produce a 90 second video tape promoting their particular product, community or organization.

These video tapes will then be transferred to a hard disc and programmed into eight interactive video display units to be installed at the Mississippi pavilion at the 1984 World's Fair. Visitors desiring specific information will key in the code for the desired brochure to activate the selected message.

"The video brochure program is a unique opportunity for participants to enhance the business and industrial climate of their area through this low-cost promotional vehicle," said Suzanne Singletary, manager of the video brochure program, Mississippi World's Fair Council, Inc.

After the World's Fair, the units will be placed in the Mississippi Welcome Centers offering participants continued exposure in the marketplace. Also, each organization will receive a copy of the video brochure for their own promotional utilization.

Interested participants should contact the Mississippi World's Fair Council toll-free (in-state) at 1-800-962-1984 for more information, or write: Manager of Video Brochure Program, Mississippi World's Fair Council, Inc., P.O. Box 849, Jackson 39205.

Space is limited so inquiries should be made prior to Jan. 15.

Sailing trio's craft christened 'Spirit of Bay St. Louis'

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club's Olympic hopefuls practicing for Florida qualification races

Donald A. Hessemer of Bay St. Louis, chairman of the "Committee to Name Soling US-760" reports a name has been selected for the three man, keel sail boat to be used by Dennis Stieffel, Randy Santa Cruz and Rod Stieffel in their campaign for a place on the U.S. Olympic Sailing Team and for a Gold Medal in 1984 Summer Olympic Games. The name selected for the Soling Class sail boat by the committee is "Spirit of Bay St. Louis" and was one of over 130 names submitted to the committee for consideration.

The winning entry was submitted independently by Edgar W. Santa Cruz III and also by Walter G. Chamberlain who are both members of Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. The top four runner-up names are Solong, Leading Edge, Which Tack, and Challenger.

According to Hessemer, the primary objectives of his committee were to come up with a good positive name for the campaign boat that will be a credit to the team, Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi and the Gulf Yachting Association throughout the campaign.

The committee arrived at its decision at a meeting Friday, January 6 and feels that "Spirit of Bay St. Louis" meets all of the above criteria. Although the team is now in St. Petersburg practicing, they continue to seek contributions to their campaign to help with travel, lodging and other necessary expenses.

Tax deductible contributions may be made to the local Olympic campaigners by making checks payable to the tax-exempt Olympic Sailing Association.

Direct non-tax deductible contributions can be made to the 1984 Olympic Sailing Campaign Fund.

All checks may be mailed to Post Office Drawer 231, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

The team's planned itinerary includes the following dates:

Jan. 4 - Feb. 13, St. Petersburg, Fla.—To study, train and practice on a daily basis at St. Petersburg where the Olympic qualifications for 20 boats or teams will be held and to practice with and learn from leading Soling competitors such as Ed Baird, Buddy Melges and others who plan to be in that area.

To participate in presently unscheduled Soling regattas, sailing clinics, rules seminars, strategy and tactics discussions. Also, to perfect the boat, equipment and boat speed.

Feb. 14 - Feb. 19, Annapolis, Md.—Travel to Annapolis to compete in Soling Midwinter Regatta 2/18.

Feb. 20 - Feb. 26, Houston—Plan to sail in the Houston Midwinter Regatta Feb. 25 and 26 and also to practice there several days.

Feb. 27-Mar. 4, Bay St. Louis—Will attempt to plan a Soling and Star Olympic Warm-Up Regatta Mar. 3 and 4 in the New Orleans or Mississippi Gulf Coast area. Could be tied to an Olympic fund raiser event.

Mar. 5 - Mar. 30, St. Petersburg—To practice and prepare for Soling U.S. Championship and Olympic Trial qualification regatta Mar. 25-30.

Mar. 30 - Apr. 8, San Francisco—To practice, prepare for and participate in the West Coast Championships and Olympic qualification regatta scheduled for April 6-8 in San Francisco.

Apr. 9 - May 25, Long Beach, Calif.—To review performance, study, train and practice on a daily basis at Long Beach where the U.S. Olympic Trials will be held May 12-25.

To practice with and learn from Dave Perry and other leading Soling competitors who may be in the Long Beach area at this time.

To participate in presently unscheduled Soling regattas, sailing clinics, rules seminars, etc.

To continue to perfect the boat, equipment and boat speed.

To develop a performance capability, mentally, physically, strategically and tactically to win a place on the U.S. Olympic Sailing Team at the U.S. Olympic Trials.

May 31, return to Bay St. Louis to plan an extended campaign.

Randy Santa Cruz, Dennis Stieffel and Rod Stieffel to be in the 'Spirit' for gold medal

Bay St. Louis trio hope to sail to an Olympic gold medal in the 'Spirit of Bay St. Louis'

Oyster biologists discuss problems with oil industry

Dr. Edwin Cake, head of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory oyster biology section, presented "The Relationship Between Oil Operations and Oyster Culture" at the recent Fourth Annual Information Transfer Meeting of the Minerals Management Service of the U.S. Department of the Interior in New Orleans.

Ronald Dugas, an oyster biologist with the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries (Seafood Division), is co-author of the paper which defines the relationship in terms of positive versus negative impacts, acute versus chronic impacts, and avoidable versus unavoidable impacts.

Cake and Dugas pointed out that most of the negative impacts on oyster culture are attributable to adverse siltation and oyster burial associated with canal and channel dredging, levee construction, maritime vessel traffic and groundings, and erosion of channels and adjacent land forms.

According to Cake and Dugas, the most significant problems in oyster culture are those caused by wetlands modifications.

Two factors have combined to squeeze the suitable oyster-growing areas into a narrow and decreasing band, they say.

One is extended north-south canals which permit increased salinization of traditional brackish-water oyster habitats and the accompanying increase in high-salinity oyster predators and disease.

The other is navigational channels and canals in the upper bay areas that serve the oil and gas industry and permit rapid infiltration of domestic and industrial pollutants into formerly pristine oyster habitats.

"Most conflicts arise between the two wetland-dependent industries because of environmental perturbations caused by the oil and gas industry," stated Cake. He assessed the three types of impacts as follows:

—The negative impacts of each industry on the other exceed the positive.

—Most chronic impacts can be avoided with the imposition of positive environmental controls, realistic prior impact assessment and planning, pre-impact negotiation with monetary settlements for potential or actual oyster lease damages, and coordination and cooperation between the parties concerned.

—Most acute impacts cannot be avoided because of their accidental and pervasive natures.

Of approximately 350 cases of oyster damage that were attributed to oil and gas operations in Louisiana in the past 40 years, 75 percent were the result of dredging and adverse siltation (oyster burial) and 17 percent the result of hydrocarbon contamination (oily flavor).

The remaining 8 percent were the result of such miscellaneous problems as oil spills, vessel groundings and seismic damage.

The paper also suggested methods for reducing the negative conflicts between the two industries, including the establishment of an ombudsman within the oil and gas industry.

Golden Eagles to visit Memphis State Saturday

Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagles continue Metro Conference action this week when they tangle with Memphis State in Memphis on Saturday afternoon.

The Eagles are currently 0-1 in the Metro after losing 88-84 to Florida State in Hattiesburg on Saturday night. The loss dropped the team to 7-5 overall.

Senior guard Curtis Green continues to pace the Golden Eagles in scoring this season with a 17.2 average and he also is the team leader in minutes played (421), assists (50) and steals (25). The Memphis, Tenn. resident has scored in double figures in all 12 games this season and is 62 of his last 66 at USM.

Junior forward James

Williams is second on the squad in scoring with a 14.5 average and also ranks second on the team in rebounding with 7.4 caroms per contest. His 51.1 field goal percentage also ranks second on the team.

Senior forward Ken Suttles is the team's leading rebounder and third leading scorer. The small forward is averaging 9.4 points after scoring a career high 20 last Saturday against Florida State and 8.8 rebounds. Four times this season Suttles has pulled down 10 or more rebounds in a game, including a career high 16 earlier this season against Eastern Illinois.

Those three players will be joined by freshman center Eddie Pope and freshman guard

Kenny Siler in the USM starting lineup this week. Pope is averaging 8.5 points and 5.4 rebounds per game, while Siler is averaging 8.7 points and 2.0 assists.

Saturday afternoon's game with Memphis State will be the 28th meeting between USM and the Tigers with MSU holding a 20-7 edge in the series.

Last season the Tigers won 81-60 in Memphis, the only meeting between the two schools.

This game will be televised as part of the Metro's TV package by the Media General Sports Network. Tip-off is set for 12:30 p.m.

They will also play at Virginia Tech on Jan. 21 and at Cincinnati on Jan. 23.

WHITE SHARK

The white shark is known to spit but human victims after an attack but it apparently has nothing to do with the shark's distaste for flesh.

reports National Wildlife magazine. It's simply a clever protection technique. By first retreating, giving the victim time to go into shock, the shark can then dine in leisure without risk of attack.

Unique ants store honey

Not all the winged, amber-colored insects collecting honey are bees.

Some are ants - honey ants that, like bees, seek and store honey.

But they have their own unique style, according to current issues of Ranger Rick, a publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Honey ants congregate in underground colonies, and nests sometimes are as much as five feet deep with a surface entryway that resembles a small volcano cone.

The colony is alive with high structured activity with queens and males (which are winged for only a part of their lives) and the wingless females and worker ants all busily tending to specialized chores.

There is one special function of the workers that is truly amazing, according to Ranger Rick.

A class of workers called "repletes," or honeypots, serve as living storage tanks for nectar that is collected by other workers.

The repletes, who spend their entire lives hanging from ceilings of nest chambers, store honey in stomachs that are stretched to a point that the honeypots look like small grapes.

When stored honey is needed, other ants stroke the repletes with their antennae and induce them to spit up some of the nourishing honey.

All this has been observed by entomologist John Conway, who studies honey ant nests in the foothills of the Colorado Rockies. Conway said that sometimes the repletes lose their footing, drop to the ground and burst.

Conway has spent 10 years studying honey ants, both outdoors and in his lab, observing how they gather nectar and following them home.

He hasn't discovered everything he wants to know about honey ants, but if he does, he plans to go to other parts of the world to learn about foreign honey ants.

The Sea Coast Echo Book Review

"Wild Bird Feeding Preferences"
What do wild birds like to eat?

Those who enjoy feeding wild birds will find help in choosing birds' favorite foods in the National Wildlife Federation's booklet, "Wild Bird Feeding Preferences."

This eight-page booklet rates 16 varieties of seeds according to preference by 13 common birds. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Urban Research Program conducted the research for the publication, written by Dr. Alred Geis and Donald Hyde, Jr.

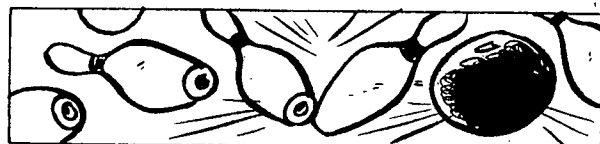

The booklet's cover drawing, by noted wildlife illustrator Bob Hines, shows these 13 birds in their normal feeding positions, with the American goldfinch on an elevated feeder and the evening grosbeak at a platform feeder.

For the bird lover who wishes to feed birds selectively, this booklet lists the preferred foods of over two dozen birds, including the chickadee, scrub jay, and song sparrow. The colorful cardinal, for example, prefers sunflower seeds of all kinds, while the blue jay likes peanut kernels, and goldfinches are attracted to hulled sunflower seeds.

"Wild Bird Feeding Preferences" is available in single copies or in bulk, at the following prices: single copy, $1, 2-25 copies, 60 cents a copy;

26-50 copies, 45 cents a copy; 51-99 copies, 35 cents a copy; and more than 1,000 copies, 25 cents a copy. Write to: Wild Bird Feeding Preferences, Dept. 157, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C., 20036.

Borg-Warner announces corporate promotions

C. E. (Red) Johnson has been elected president and chief operating officer and a member of the board of directors of Borg-Warner Corporation.

James F. Bere, chairman and chief executive officer, also named Leonard A. Harvey, 58, and Robert E. LaRoche, 57 as executive vice presidents.

Keith D. Schulz, 45, was elected vice president and general counsel.

Johnson, 57, replaces Jerry E. Dempsey, who resigned in December. Johnson is a 31-year Borg-Warner veteran and since 1982 has been vice president for transportation, heading the company's automotive equipment groups.

"These appointments will assure continuity of management," Bere said.

"Johnson and the two new executive vice presidents bring a seasoned management team of the best talent we have to bear on the operating side of the business."

Harvey will be responsible for the chemicals and plastics, air conditioning and energy equipment groups; and LaRoche for financial services and Borg-Warner Australia, Ltd. Both will report to Johnson. The protective services and transportation equipment groups will report directly to Johnson.

Johnson was a special agent for the FBI prior to joining Borg-Warner in 1952 at the company's Marvel-Schebler/Tillotson division at Decatur, Ill. He became vice president and works manager there in 1964.

He later served as president of the mechanics division at Rockford, Ill., and from 1970 to 1975 was managing director of the transmission division for Borg-Warner, Ltd., at Letchworth, England.

In 1975, he was named president and general manager of the Morse Chain division at Ithaca, N.Y.

He was elected corporate vice president, management services, in 1979 and served in that position until taking over the transportation equipment group in May, 1982.

Harvey joined Borg-Warner Chemicals, Inc., headquartered at Parkersburg, W. Va., in 1952 and rose through the ranks of that subsidiary until appointed president in January, 1980. He was elected a vice president of Borg-Warner Corporation a few months later.

George J. McNally, 48, will succeed Harvey as president of Borg-Warner Chemicals, Inc. Previously, he was executive vice president of the subsidiary. He joined Borg-Warner Chemicals in 1967 when the company acquired Weston Chemicals, Inc. He served as president of the Weston division and as president of Borg-Warner Chemicals Europe.

LaRoche joined Borg-Warner Acceptance Corporation as its first branch manager in 1955. He served in a number of positions at BWAC since then and was named its president in 1965 and chairman in 1971.

He was elected a Borg-Warner vice president in 1975 and held the title of vice president, services, until his new appointment.

Schulz succeeds Russell J. Parsons who retired after 37 years of service with the company. Previously, Schulz was assistant general counsel, a position he has held since 1975.

Schulz, who has practiced general corporate, finance and securities law for Borg-Warner since 1974, also served as general counsel of the company's financial services group, which includes Borg-Warner Acceptance Corporation and several other subsidiaries and divisions. He joined Borg-Warner's legal department as an attorney in 1967.

Borg-Warner's major products and services are air conditioning equipment, chemicals and plastics, energy and industrial equipment, transportation equipment, and financial and protective services.

The company's Bay Mar plastics plant is located in the Hancock County Port Bienvenue Industrial Park near the East Pearl River.

Some starch is important for health and nutrition

By Barbara S. McLaurin
Food and Nutrition
Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Starches (complex carbohydrates) and sugars are main sources of usable carbohydrates. Their principal function is to provide energy to the body.

Starch in the American diet has dropped nearly 25 percent since the early 1900's. In addition, the proportion of starch to sugar eaten has decreased so that now more sugar than starch is consumed. Early in this century, over two-thirds of our carbohydrate intake was starch.

Growing numbers of experts believe this reduction of carbohydrate intake and reversal in the starch-to-sugar ratio is harmful to health, possibly contributing to some of today's killer diseases.

Many people mistakenly believe that starchy foods such as potatoes and bread are especially fattening compared with meat or other high-protein foods.

This is not true. A gram of pure carbohydrate or pure protein both yield only four calories. Fat contains nine calories per gram. Thus fat has over two times as many calories as carbohydrates or proteins.

In addition, many high-protein foods contain considerable fat or have fat added in preparation.

One medium-size potato is 75 to 80 percent water and has only 75 calories. One slice of white or whole wheat bread, containing about 34 percent water, varies from 60 to 75 calories. One large egg (57 percent water) and one ounce cooked ground-beef each contain more than 80 calories and have a smaller volume.

The bad reputation for starchy foods has come about because people sometimes eat too many or too large servings of carbohydrate foods. In addition, they often add gravy, butter or margarine or cream and fry the starchy foods in fat or oil.

It is not that starchy foods are especially fattening. If you get more calories than you need from whatever source, that food will contribute to an overweight problem.

There is no Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for starch; however, nutrition authorities ordinarily recommend that from 50 to 100 grams of carbohydrates are needed daily to meet minimum needs.

In view of the beneficial effects of starch and the disease patterns that appear to accompany high fat and high sugar intakes, most nutrition authorities are suggesting that more calories come from starch rather than sugar and fat.

This means liberal use of foods with complex carbohydrates such as beans, peas, nuts, seeds, fruits and vegetables and whole grain breads and cereals. Besides starch and fiber, these foods contain many other essential nutrients.

A diet adequate in starch will usually have six to eight servings of breads, cereals, legumes or starchy vegetables daily. Size of servings can be varied according to calorie need.

A menu with adequate starch is:

—Breakfast: Orange juice; egg, soft cooked; banana nut bread or whole wheat bread; skim milk, fortified; water, tea or coffee.

—Brown bag lunch: Tuna salad sandwich with whole wheat bread; fresh fruit; skim milk, fortified.

—Dinner: Beef pot roast; mashed or baked potato; green beans; spinach salad/dressing; Italian bread/margarine; citrus fruit cup; water, tea or coffee.

—Snacks: Chili bean dip, raw vegetable sticks, juice or alternates, whole wheat crackers, beverages.

UNO seminar to eye planned marketing

A one-day seminar on "How to Design and Implement the Annual Marketing Plan" will be held Feb. 2 at the University of New Orleans Downtown Center, Queen and Crescent Building, 344 Camp St.

The seminar, which is sponsored by the UNO College of Business Administration, will also be held Feb. 1 at the Sheraton Acadiana in Lafayette and Feb. 3 at the Holiday Inn-Medical Center in Jackson.

The program is designed to show participants how to use planning to build profits, establish goals and budgets, take advantage of research, set up time-tables for action, and develop contingency plans.

Sample forms will be distributed as guides in preparing budgets, conducting audits and writing a formal marketing plan.

Dr. Richard W. Hansen, professor of marketing, the Edwin L. Cox School of Business Administration, Southern Methodist University, will conduct the programs.

Dr. Hansen, who is former dean of the business school and a former chairman of the department of marketing, has served as marketing consultant for a number of organizations, including the U.S. Department of Commerce and General Foods.

The seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day. For further information, call the UNO business college, (504) 284-6248.

ETV Brief

NOVA EXAMINES ESP
In its next program "Nova" examines the claims for and against paranormal phenomena, including extrasensory perception, and looks at some surprising applications in the fields of archeology, criminology and warfare.

"The Case of ESP" can be seen at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 17, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

It will be rebroadcast at 1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 21.

From Victorian parlor games to today's psychic best sellers, the claims for ESP have been dismissed by skeptics as fraudulent nonsense. But in the last 10 years, some scientists have put paranormal phenomena to the laboratory test and are claiming astonishing results.

"The Case of ESP" also covers the military application of remote viewing at the Stanford Research Institute.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

The key word thought today is "trouble." Growing up as I have with the last name Murphy has afforded me to test the theories of Murphy's Laws on more than one occasion and thus have a unique insight into troubles.

You must be familiar with some of Murphy's Laws.

"The light at the end of the tunnel is the headlamp of an oncoming train."

"You will remember that you forgot to take out the trash when the garbage truck is two doors away."

"If everything seems to be going well, you obviously don't have any idea of what is going on!"

Yes, there are many times in each of our lives when we all feel like singing, "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen."

And yet the words of Solomon are still true today, "If all men were to bring there miseries together in one place, most would be glad to take each his own home again rather than take a portion out of the common stock."

The great nineteenth century evangelist Henry Ward Beecher wisely put troubles into perspective when he said, "Troubles are often the tools by which God fashions for us better things."

Hannah More wrote, "When thou hast truly thanked the Lord for every blessing sent, but little time will then remain for murmur or lament."

The fact that trouble is simply a natural part of life is also well spoken by Arnot. "Men are born to trouble at first, and are exercised in it all their days. There is a cry at the beginning of life and a groan at the end of it."

If good times can be readily handed by all, then perhaps it is the handling of troublesome times that separates average men and women from great ones.

What is your usual method of handling life's setbacks? Do you often feel sorry for yourself? Do you try to escape reality and try to live in a fantasy world? Or do you seek God's help through prayer and study? Do you have enough faith in God to believe that He can turn your liability into an asset?

Perhaps for the Christian we should redefine "trouble" as a unique opportunity to demonstrate our faith in God!

Plaintiff(s)
VS.
SHIRLEY BOUDRO HALEY, ADMINISTRATRIX
Defendant(s)
SUMMONS
Case No. 16,308
(Service by Publication: Residence Unknown)
TO: UNKNOWN HEIRS AT LAW OF PETER N. HUFF, DECEASED, but whose present residence and address is unknown. You have been made Defendant in the lawsuit filed in this Court by Shirley Boudro Haley, Administratrix, whose address is c/o Walter J. Phillips, P.O. Box 128, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, 39520.
The Complaint filed against you has initiated a civil action alleging Mrs. Malvina Smith Huff is the sole and only heir at law of Peter N. Huff, deceased and seeking legal adjudication of the heirs.
You are required to mail or hand deliver a copy of a written Answer either admitting or denying each allegation in the Complaint to Walter J. Phillips, Plaintiff's Attorney, whose address is P.O. Box 128, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, 39520.
YOUR ANSWER MUST BE MAILED OR DELIVERED NOT LATER THAN THIRTY DAYS AFTER THE 2ND DAY OF February, 1984, WHICH IS 21 DAYS FROM THE DATE OF THE FIRST PUBLICATION OF THIS SUMMONS. IF YOUR ANSWER IS NOT SO MAILED OR DELIVERED, A JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT MAY BE ENTERED AGAINST YOU FOR THE MONEY OR OTHER RELIEF DEMANDED IN THE COMPLAINT.
Witness my signature and official seal this 5th day of January, 1984.

100,000 Americans are 100 years old

By John Lovitt
Gerontology Program
Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

We are experiencing today in the United States an aging epidemic. We are growing older and living longer.

There was a time when age 65 was considered very old, but 65 is still quite young today. There are more than 100,000 people over the age of 100 living today!

Much is being written on the topic of growing old and how to do it well and gracefully. One of the most significant comments on the subject was written several years ago by one of the world's most influential educators, Frank Laubach, who founded the Laubach Literacy Foundation. Here is his letter:

I have good news for you. The first 80 years are the hardest!

The second 80, as far as my experience goes, is a succession of birthday parties. Everybody wants to carry your baggage and help you up the steps. If you forget anybody's name or forget to fulfill an appointment or promise...you can explain that you are 80.

If you spill your soup on your necktie or fail to shave one side of your face or if your shoes don't match or you take another man's hat by mistake or carry a letter around in your pocket a week before you read it, you are 80. So you can relax with no misgivings, for you have a perfect alibi for everything.

"Nobody expects much of you. If you act silly it is your second childhood. Everybody is looking for symptoms of softening of the brain. Being 80 is a great deal better than being 65 or 70. At that time they expect you to retire to a little house in Florida and become a discontented, grumbling, limping has-been.

But if you survive till 80, everybody is surprised that you can walk, surprised that you can talk above a whisper, surprised if you reveal signs of lucid intervals, surprised that you are alive. At 70, people are mad at you for everything; at 80, they forgive everything. If you ask me, life begins at 80."

Laubach's letter may be a message to those of us who have not yet reached the age of 65 or 70. It may be a word of encouragement to those who have.

One of the most practical bits of information I have received in the last few months came from a woman of 71 who says she has, in the past six years, compiled a list of things an older person can do to make life more interesting and meaningful. Her list follows:

1. Laugh, at yourself and others in a nice way. Collect current cartoons and little jokes and share them with others.

2. If possible, exercise every day. Walk, jog a little, and do basic calisthenics. You will feel less tired.

3. Eat at regular hours. If you wait too long for a meal you will feel tired later.

4. If possible, take a nap at your "low ebb." Usually one hour nap is sufficient.

5. Take medicine if your doctor orders it, and don't if he doesn't. However, some multiple vitamins might help you feel better if you take them appropriately.

6. If you do not have a job, or if you do have one and still have time on your hands, develop two hobbies. One to do when you get tired of the other.

7. Keep at a distance those people who are not congenial with you. Respect them if you can, but do not involve yourself with them.

8. Help others less fortunate than yourself by doing things with them and for them. Money seldom helps anyone as much as time and attention does.

9. Never lend money. You may want to give it away, but lending it causes problems.

10. Draw up a will carefully and if possible with a lawyer's help. Always select a younger "back up" person to be your executor or executrix.

11. Every day do one little thing just for yourself. It can be simple: Watching a sunset. Buying a good book to read.

12. Minimize your troubles as much as possible, telling them only to those close friends who have time and want to listen.

13. Talk to God (out loud when you are alone) about what you need and want and what you are sorry for. Ask His help and then take time to listen. Remember He will have the last word.

Dr. Virginia Morell, an educator and psychologist, has provided excellent advice on her list. She is a living example of a healthy, happy 71 year-old who enjoys life to the fullest.

Do you have tidbits you can share with others to help them along the aging trail?

Arbor Day Foundation offering free trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free trees to people who become foundation members during January.

The free trees are part of the foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

A red maple, black walnut, American redbud, Norway spruce, red oak, white flowering dogwood, European mountain ash, flowering crab, shagbark hickory, and Colorado blue spruce tree will be given to members joining during January.

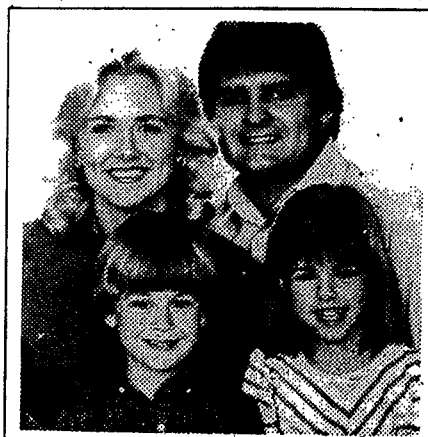

These trees were selected to provide a wide range of benefits: flowers, shade, berries, nuts, and beautiful fall foliage, according to the foundation. The six to 12 inch trees will be shipped postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring. The foundation makes its spring shipments between Feb. 1 and May 31, depending on the local climate and this year's weather.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during January.

To become a member of the foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to Ten Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Jan. 31.

Christ Episcopal Church begins Epiphany with cantata

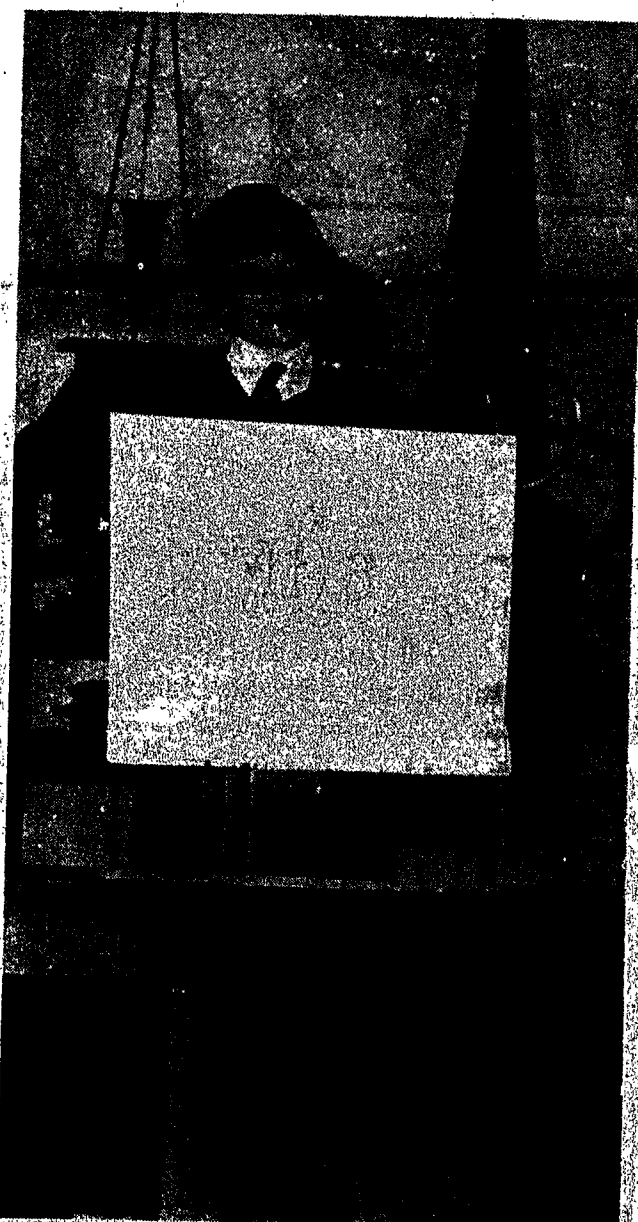

EXPRESSING SENTIMENTS OF CHILDREN THROUGHOUT THE WORLD, THE CHOIR SINGS "I WONDER ABOUT CHRISTMAS."

Staff photos by Nan Patton Ehrbright

WORDS OF WELCOME FROM SCOTT COVODE.

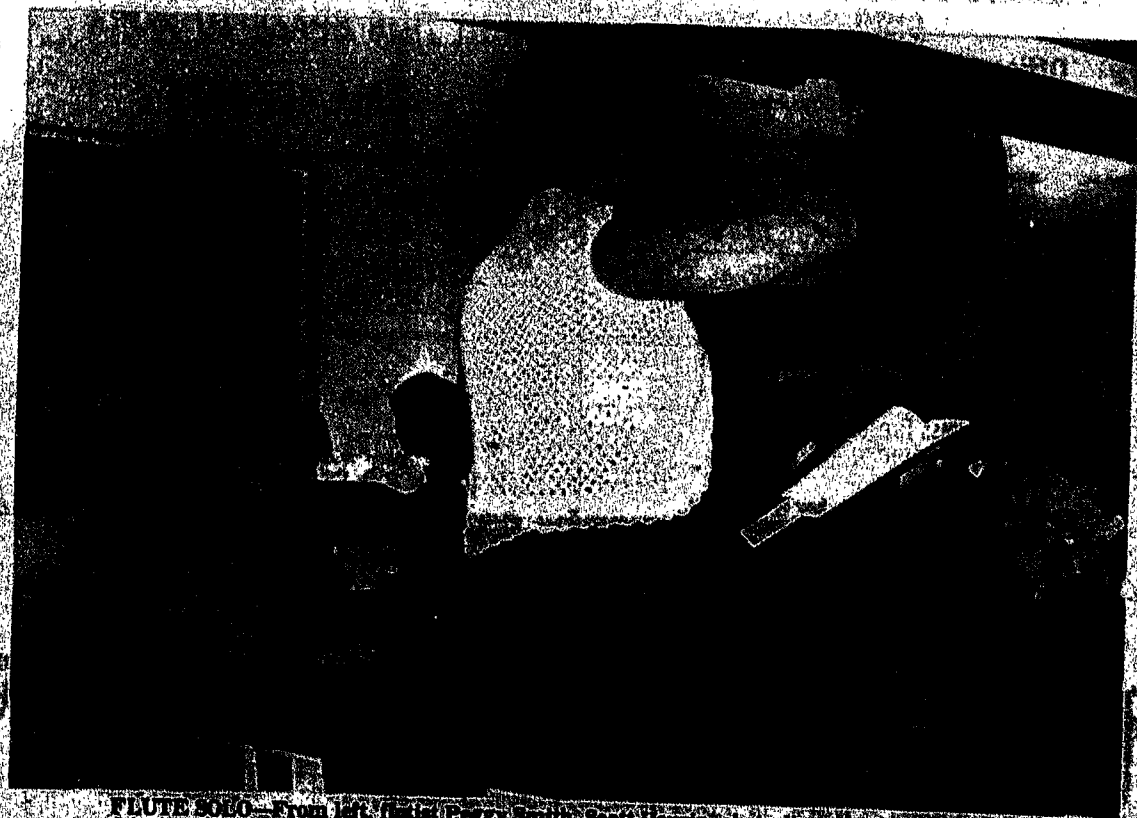

By NAN P. EHRLBRIGHT
Christ Episcopal Day School students repeated their children's Christmas cantata for Epiphany services last week at Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis.
Epiphany, Jan. 6, is observed as a church festival in commemoration of the coming of the Magi as the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles or, in the Eastern Church, in commemoration of the baptism of Christ.
The cantata was preceded by a medley of Christmas songs by organist Ingrid Ling.
Some 120 first through sixth graders participated in the presentation of "I Wonder About Christmas."
Student speakers included Jeffrey Gomez, Ross Bonura, Brian Plunkett, Margaret Clarkson, Chris Bradley and Billy Gulce.
The Rev. Charles Johnson gave the benediction.

"MARY'S LULLABY"—Sandy Demis portrays Mary.

"PLAY, SHEPHERD"—Nathan Gulce portrays a shepherd boy while, from left, Julie Hopper, Hilary Dattel, Melissa Arieth, Chad Ambrose and Serena Kung join their classmates in singing.

BIRD BRAIN

You don't have to be an ornithologist (or-nuh-THOL-uh-jist), a scientist who studies birds, to answer these "bird brain" riddles.

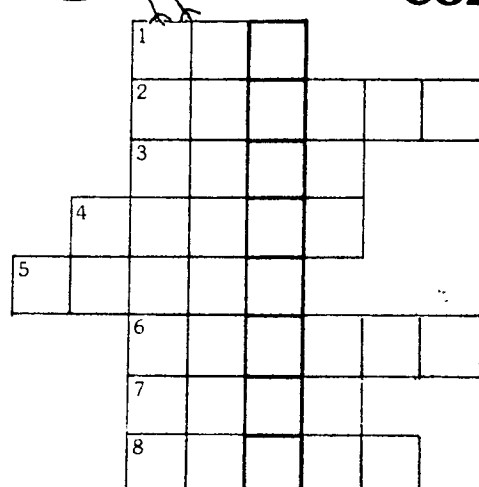

1. What bird meows?
2. What bird gives milk?
3. What bird would you find in your mother's stove?
4. What bird is a royal fisher?
5. What do you call a dove at a funeral?

Drawing by Lionel Kalish

COLOR ME RED

by Helen Pettigrew

Fill in the squares above with the colors of the birds in the list on the right. Then rearrange the letters in the column with heavy lines to find another bird.

1. Robin ____ breast.
2. Color of a canary.
3. A catbird's coat is dark ____.
4. Color of a raven and crow.
5. Color of a wren and thrasher.
6. Color of a martin.
7. A mockingbird's coat is a lighter ____ than a catbird's.
8. A junco's breast is ____.

Answers:
1. red 2. yellow
3. purple 4. black 5. white
6. gray 7. gray 8. white
Answer to heavily lined column: cardinal.

Dixie National schedules Junior Round-Up Feb. 2-12

The Mississippi Junior Round-Up is scheduled Feb. 2 through Feb. 12 at the state fairgrounds complex in Jackson as part of the 19th annual Dixie National Livestock Show.

"The Mississippi Junior Round-Up is one of the highlights of the Dixie National. It gives youngsters experience in showing their prize animals," said Jim Buck Ross, Mississippi commissioner of agriculture and commerce.

Ross is also chairman of the Mississippi State Fair Commission which sponsors the Dixie National.

"The Mississippi Junior Round-Up provides an excellent opportunity for youngsters to show their prize lambs, sheep, hogs, beef and dairy animals," said Billy Orr, executive director, Dixie National Livestock Show.

Tommy Strickland, livestock manager, Dixie National Livestock Show, said, "Mississippi's youngsters, who exhibit in the round-up, have some of the finest livestock anywhere and they are very professional in exhibiting them."

"The Mississippi Junior Round-Up continues to be a popular event for exhibitors and visitors," Strickland added.

The 1984 Mississippi Junior Round-Up will offer special awards to first and second places in all classes from the Farm Credit Banks of New Orleans and the H.H. Anson Memorial Livestock Award.

The H.H. Anson Memorial Award, named in honor of the late H.H. Anson, manager of the Dixie National and the fairgrounds complex for many years, is sponsored by the Mississippi State Fair Commission.

It will be presented to either the county 4-H or vocational education chapter with the most outstanding total livestock (beef, swine and lamb exhibit) at the Mississippi Junior Round-Up Livestock Show.

A part of the 1984 Round-Up will be the 1984 Dixie National Calf Scramble, slated for 3:30 p.m. Feb. 8 in the Coliseum with $1,000 in premiums.

The Calf Scramble will be open to 4-H and FFA exhibitors who participate in the Mississippi Junior Round-Up. Entry blanks may be obtained by writing Dixie National Livestock Show, Calf Scramble, P.O. Box 892, Jackson, Ms. 39205, with closing deadline being Jan. 27.

Junior judging events include the Market Lamb Show, Dairy Show, Market Swine

Show on Tuesday, Feb. 7; the Beef Breeding Show, Dixie National Calf Scramble and time, to learn about another Steer Show on Wednesday, Feb. 8.

The Round-Up concludes volunteer area representative, provided by ASSE, will of Champions in the sales contact the host family and the guest student on a regular basis to assure that

National association accredits JSU art

Jackson State University's department of art has received initial accreditation from the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, said JSU President Dr. John A. Peoples Jr.

The department's accreditation is effective through 1988.

"Gaining accreditation of the art department is another step in making the department more attractive to students throughout the southeast," he said. "This will make our department more competitive with other institutions in this region."

Students' career possibilities will be enhanced due to the endorsement from the accrediting agency, Peoples added.

Plans to earn certification from the accreditation agency began in 1974 when the department, under the leadership of department head Dr. Grace Hampton, revamped its curriculum and upgraded its instructional equipment.

Hampton is currently on an Intergovernmental Personal Act Loan to the National Endowment for the Arts. She will return for the 1984-85 academic year.

Dr. Floyd Coleman, acting head of the department of art, said that the recognition given the department by NASAD means that "we are moving in the right direction."

"We are now focusing our efforts on developing a commercial art/applied design classroom as we continue to upgrade our current facilities," he said.

"Our long-range goals include providing more space for our students to work and the additional renovation of our art galleries."

The department was organized in 1951 with a limited number of course listings. It currently lists 47 student majors and three types of degrees consisting of various academic concentrations.

Local families invited to host exchange students

The American Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE) is seeking local families to serve as hosts for 15 Scandinavian, German, Swiss, British and Icelandic high school students who are part of the ASSE exchange visitor program, according to Carole Powell, Southern Director of ASSE.

The non-profit ASSE is affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education and is officially designated by the U.S. Information Agency as an Exchange Visitor Program.

The students, 16 and 17 years old, are fluent in English and are carefully selected for the program based on their high school performance, good character, and interest in the ASSE program. All of them are covered by comprehensive medical and liability insurance and have adequate money for personal needs supplied by their parents. The host family furnishes meals and housing.

The ASSE program offers families the opportunity to share North American cultural and educational experiences with a European young person and, at the same time, to learn about another culture and language.

Powell indicated that a volunteer area representative, provided by ASSE, will of Champions in the sales contact the host family and the guest student on a regular basis to assure that everything is going smoothly.

Families interested in serving as hosts for the 1984-85 school year should contact ASSE's local Area Representative, Lyn Oerting, 1115 Highland Drive, Picayune, 39466 (601) 798-9557.

Retirement dinner to honor
Dr. Charles Holladay

Mississippi educators are planning a dinner to honor retiring State Superintendent of Education Dr. Charles E. Holladay. The event will be held Monday, Jan. 30, 1984, at 7 p.m. at the Coliseum, Ramada Inn in Jackson.

Holladay, who has been superintendent since 1976, leaves office as Mississippi's last elected state superintendent of education. Beginning July 1, 1984, the superintendent will be appointed by the State Board of Education.

Cost of the dinner is $11. Contributions for a gift are also being accepted. Make checks for the meal and/or gift payable to the C.E. Holladay Appreciation Fund, c/o the State Department of Education, P.O. Box 771, Jackson.

CROWDED ROOST

You think you live in cramped quarters? Cave dwelling bats may roost at densities of up to 300 bats per square foot, according to International Wildlife magazine. And a single cave may house more than 40 million bats.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION — The effects of an overdose on stimulants include agitation, increase in body temperature, hallucinations, convulsions, and possible death. Which of the following drugs is not a stimulant?

- a) Benzadrine
- b) Preludin
- c) Ritalin
- d) Valium

ANSWER — Benzadrine, Preludin and Ritalin are brand names of often prescribed stimulants or "uppers." Valium, the drug most often prescribed in the United States, is a tranquilizer.
Correct answer - d.

QUESTION — According to a nutritionist at the University of Miami, it is possible to become a "caffeine junkie." Caffeine can produce physical dependence, and its withdrawal symptoms include:

- a) Headaches
- b) Upset stomachs
- c) Cold sweats
- d) All of the above

ANSWER — Researchers say that children who drink large amounts of cola or chocolate drink may show restlessness.

Irritability, sleeplessness, and nervousness. Caffeine content in a 12-ounce serving of popular colas ranges from 37.7 mg. in Diet-Rite to 64.7 mg. in Coca-Cola. A cup of instant coffee contains 66 mg. of caffeine; a cup of perked coffee contains 110 mg.
Correct answer - d.

QUESTION — What percentage of deaths in the United States are related to drug abuse?

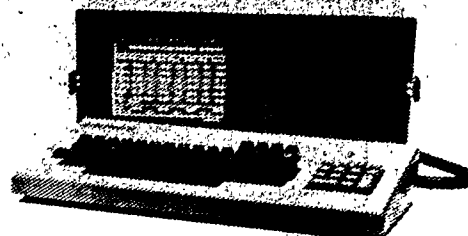

- a) 5%
- b) 15%
- c) 25%
- d) 35%

ANSWER — Dr. Richard Philipson of the National Institute on Drug Abuse reports that one quarter of all deaths in the U.S. last year were related to use and abuse of chemical substances: alcohol, nicotine, and other drugs. He says that 300,000 premature deaths can be ascribed to nicotine smoking, over 200,000 deaths to alcohol use, and around 75,000 deaths associated with other drugs.
Correct answer - c.

For further information about alcohol and drug abuse write: Dr. Paul G. Jones, II, Executive Director, Christian Action Commission, P.O. Box 530, Jackson, MS 39205.

Mississippi College featuring elderhostel

Elderhostel, a summer program at Mississippi College for persons over 60 years of age, will feature a 1984 curriculum to complement the New Orleans World's Fair theme and persons in the Bay St. Louis area desiring to attend should apply at once.

Senior adults who register for Elderhostel prior to May 1 will have first option on a one-day excursion to the World's Fair following their week on campus via special charter arranged by Mississippi College.

The fair theme will be "The World of Rivers—Fresh Water As A Source Of Life." During the week of June 17-23, participants will have the opportunity of choosing from courses on Rivers of the Bible, The Mississippi River and Its Environment, and Exploring Mark Twain's Mississippi River. All three courses can be taken if desired.

Courses during the week of June 24-30 will include Exercise, The Mississippi River and Its Environment, and Exploring Mark Twain's Mississippi River. Activities both weeks will also include special field trips and other interesting features.

Senior adults in the local area desiring registration information should write to Continuing Education, Mississippi College, P. O. Box 4185, Clinton, MS 39058, or call 924-9766.

College registration listed

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE
Mississippi College reminds persons in the Bay St. Louis area that registration for the 1984 spring semester will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 16-17, and that classes will begin on regular schedule on Wednesday, Jan. 18.

Residence halls on campus will be open to students beginning at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 15, with orientation for all new students scheduled for Monday morning in Nelson Auditorium.

Evening School students will register from 5-7 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 16, while all other students will register on Tuesday according to their class in college and the first letter of their last name.

Additional Evening School registration is also planned for Thursday, Jan. 19, and Tuesday, Jan. 24, from 5-7 p.m.

Undergraduate students will follow the following schedule on Tuesday:

Seniors—M-Z, 9:30 a.m.; Freshmen and Transfers—M-Z, 10:30 a.m.; A-L, 10:30-11 a.m.; Juniors—M-Z, 1:30 p.m.; Sophomores—M-Z, 2:30 p.m.; A-L, 2:30-3 p.m.

Graduate and non-degree students can register anytime on Tuesday between 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.

Final exams for the spring semester are scheduled for May 11-17, with the regular school year closing out on Saturday, May 19, with graduation exercises in the A. E. Wood Coliseum starting at 2 p.m.

Persons in the local area desiring a complete schedule of classes or additional registration information should call 924-5131 and ask for the appropriate department or office.

UNO schedules free concerts

The University of New Orleans Campus Activities Board will present two concerts in January. The Bermuda Triangle Band will perform Monday, Jan. 23, in a free concert to be held from noon to 2 p.m. on the north lawn of the UNO University Center. In case of rain, the program will be held in the University Center ballroom.

Association renews Pass accreditation

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, through its Commission on Elementary Schools, has awarded continuing accreditation to Pass Christian Public Schools by action taken during the Association's 88th Annual Meeting in New Orleans in December.

Through accreditation, school staff and faculty members will benefit by knowing that conditions for teaching in accredited schools meet certain minimum standards and that efforts are continuously made to improve these conditions. Regional standards require adequate facilities and facilities and their effective use.

Citizens are assured of accountability and of value for their tax dollars through the process of standard setting and the regular re-evaluations of SACs member institutions. Communities with accredited schools can be confident that their institutions compare favorably with others in the region. Accredited schools are a "plus" for those who are interested in relocating their families and businesses.

Founded in 1895, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is one of six regional accrediting bodies in the United States. More than 11,000 member public and private universities, colleges, junior colleges, occupational institutions, secondary schools, middle schools, and elementary schools enroll approximately five million students.

Volunteers Needed For Local Medic Alert Week

Medic Alert Foundation is seeking volunteers to help conduct a local, community-wide Medic Alert Week effort. Set for April 1-7, 1984, the week's effort is designed to call attention to the life-protecting value of emergency medical identification.

Persons interested in volunteering for Medic Alert Week should write Medic Alert Foundation, P.O. Box 1009, Turlock, CA, 95381. Or call 800/344-3226. In California, call 209/668-3333.

Sousa authority to perform at Conductors Conference

The Southern Instrumental Conductors Conference, Feb. 9-11 at the University of Southern Mississippi will bring John Phillip Sousa to the campus in the form of Keith Brion, an authority on Sousa. Brion is just one of a number of outstanding performers and clinicians that will include the All-State Junior College Band and the All-South Honor Band. Formerly conductor at Yale University, Brion will lead the Southern Wind Ensemble in an authentic recreation of one of the Sousa Band's concerts. Instrumentation, seating, repertoire, pacing and performance of the music, including some unpublished sousa originals will be authentic. "Mr. Brion, who bears a startling resemblance to the March King, will conduct the concert in costume as John Phillip Sousa," said Dr. Ike Nail, director of bands at USM. The All-South Honor band will be composed of top All-State high school players from throughout the South. The honor band has a highly successful beginning last year drawing students from seven states. The All-State Junior College Band is a new feature of the conference. Clinics, workshops, lectures and recitals by USM faculty and other guest clinicians will round out the conference that has grown to be one of the largest of its kind in the South, according to Nail. For additional information contact Dr. Ike Nail, Southern Station Box 5032, Hattiesburg, 39401 or call 266-4990.

ETV Brief

MARX BROTHERS
 A festival of Marx Brothers movies will be presented on Mississippi ETV at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays beginning Jan. 19 with "The Cocoanuts." Preceding the movie festival will be a two-hour documentary film, "The Marx Brothers in a Nutshell," at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 12. "The Marx Brothers in a Nutshell," recalls the early days of their careers when they performed on the vaudeville stage. They later became an "overnight" success on Broadway and then moved on to perform in film after film.

Library group sponsoring computer 'Software Circus'

The Coastal Mississippi Library Cooperative, an association of area libraries of all types, is sponsoring a "Software Circus," a demonstration display of representative microcomputer software of interest to teachers, librarians, and actual or potential users of home and small business computers.

The event is to be held at the Biloxi Library, 217 Lamuse St., Saturday, Jan. 21 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

At least seven Coast computer dealers will be on hand to demonstrate and explain their products.

Visitors will have an opportunity for hands-on contact with such software as word processors, spreadsheets, graphics, programming language, and educational software.

Digital Solutions, a Gulfport firm, is acting as coordinator for the event.

The microcomputer, an immensely powerful information storage and communication device, is finding a wide variety of uses in libraries, and the library organization hopes to sponsor a Software Circus annually.

Commenting on the widespread use of microcomputers, Mary Reimann, chairman of the library group, notes that the latest issue of "The Software Catalog, Microcomputers" lists some 9,470 software programs available from 2,639 vendors. This catalog can be seen at the circus.

Sherman's 20th Century Civil War tactics still generate hate among Southerners

By John F. Marszalek

History
The mere mention of his name anywhere below the Mason-Dixon Line raises hackles. Were a poll taken in the South today, he would probably be voted most despised — by acclamation.

William T. Sherman is condemned in the South as no other individual ever has been or probably ever will be. He is THE Yankee, the epitome of evil.

And why not? Doesn't he deserve it? Wasn't he a brute? Sherman was a complicated man. When he looked at war, he saw it as a total experience: individuals behind the lines were as much a part of the conflict as were those on the front lines. Demoralize the civilians, he reasoned, and the opposing army will crumble. Destroy property, frighten the populace, convince the opponent that victory is impossible, and the war will end more quickly and with less bloodshed than otherwise possible.

This kind of psychological total war is an accepted part of American 20th century strategic thought. Consider the aerial bombardment of enemy cities during World War II and Vietnam.

During the Civil War, such ideas were revolutionary and considered barbaric. Sherman's strategy was viewed as brutish; what was worse it was ungentlemanly in the chivalrous 19th century. Sherman became an object of intense southern hatred whereas 20th century generals have become heroes.

In the years since the Civil War, Sherman has been blamed for destroying property, stealing cattle, disrupting slavery in places his army never even visited. Clearly, his psychological warfare worked sensationally; he so demoralized his opposition that Southerners, and even their descendants, assigned him responsibility for things he never did. He became the major villain of the war in a way even he could not have imagined.

Sherman was not alone in inflicting hurt on the South. U.S. Grant produced his share, too. Yet, Grant has not become a similar object of southern condemnation. Grant acted traditionally — he had his army try to out-kill the other side.

Sherman, on the other hand, helped bring about victory by embarrassing the South; he sliced through the very heart of the homeland. His army killed far fewer Confederates than Grant's army did, but Sherman's men destroyed property and disrupted life in an unconventional exasperating way. There was glory in dying nobly in the front lines; there was only heartbreak in dying psychologically at the hands of the enemy's torch.

Contemporaries, who were in the path of Sherman's army, suffered directly from his activities. But they also knew another side of their destroyer, a pro-southern side, and this knowledge came to moderate their feelings.

When the war was nearly over, they received with approval the news of his generous treaty with Confederate General Joseph E. Johnston. They read of his open disdain for Radical Republican ideas and his pro-slavery, anti-black position. He vociferously insisted that the post-war South should return to the control of its traditional white leadership.

In the post-war years, Southerners heard him often sound more like a partisan Southerner than a brutal Yankee destroyer. Sherman had a genuine love for the South. As a young army officer in the 1840's, he had lived in Florida, South Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama. In the late 1850's, he had become one of the founding fathers of what today is Louisiana State University.

He devised his theory of warfare to end the war as rapidly as possible with the least loss of life.

Contemporaries recognized this pro-Southern side of Sherman. In 1869, when he visited the region, many Southern newspapers urged him to run for president.

When he came South again in 1879, touring from Chattanooga to Jackson, he received a friendly welcome. In New Orleans, he was Rex's honored guest at Mardi Gras, and, in Mississippi, state officials met him cordially. He was received amicably, not as a returning barbarian. His wartime activities, while not forgotten, were remembered in perspective.

When he died in 1891, one of his honorary pall bearers was the aged Confederate General, Joseph E. Johnston, who dramatically ignored the rain to bare his head as the coffin went by.

In 1983, Sherman's pro-Southern feeling and his welcome during his post-war Southern tours have long been forgotten. Southerners today dislike him with an intensity their forebears would have found surprising.

Time has hardened Southern hatred for Sherman rather than easing it. Whereas Southerners, like most Americans, have forgiven the Japanese for Pearl Harbor

NOTICE SICK PEOPLE

Have you ever noticed how sick people are as easily irritated, upset, and often nervous and tense. It doesn't have to be sick nerves or emotional problems alone that create these reactions, and in many cases it isn't that at all. You see, when the body is sick or in pain, one can be overcome with a feeling of the unknown and fear, bringing about extreme nervousness and anxiety. However, for every sickness there must be an internal cause. A Chiropractic examination and spinal therapy, if necessary, are geared to be very thorough so as to not miss the basic underlying cause of either the sickness or the nervousness. That's why Chiropractic care has proven to be so effective in caring for the emotionally upset, nervous and mental problems. If nerve interference is creating sickness in the body, we have found it also to be responsible for creating nervousness. Chiropractic is the safest, most conservative care that should be applied in the majority of these problems first.
